Numb. 538.

THE Pennſylvania GAZETTE.

Containing the freſheſt Advices Foreign and Domeſtick.

FROM MARCH 29. TO APRIL 5. 1739.

The Remainder of the Letter begun in our laſt.

THE Clerk had ſcarce made his Entry, when we were diſturbed by a Fellow coming bawling into Court, in a mighty Chafe, and with great Vehemence crying out Juſtice! Juſtice! Upon Enquiry into the Cauſe of ſuch a Diſorder, the Man, after having taken ſome time to recover his Breath, and with a Countenance which ſhewed that he was no leſs agitated by Shame than Reſentment, began in the following Manner. You muſt know then (an't pleaſe your ------) that thro' the Influence of my curſed ill Stars, I happened ſome time ago to light upon this ſame Proclamation, and was hugely pleaſed at the Reading thereof. I could not but highly commend the righteous and juſt Offer to all his good Tenants, to make them Satisfaction for what was wanting in their Leaſes, and for which they had paid Rent ſo many Years for nothing at all. Hold! tho' I think my Memory is not ſo bad, yet for fear of Miſtakes, with your good Leave, I will be bold to read it; I have it here in my Hand to ſhew you. "And "whereas it may in ſome few Inſtances have happened, "that thro' Ignorance, Accident, or the Confuſion of "ancient Times, ſome Leaſes were then granted for "leſs Land than was thereby intended or expreſſed to "be granted; We do hereby in our great Juſtice far-"ther promiſe and engage to make ample Satisfaction "for ſuch Defects;" and ſo forth to the End, which you all muſt know as well as I. This drove me immediately, tho' I fear me, with more Haſte than good Speed, to repair to the Manſion Houſe, and there at a great Expence, ſuch as they pleaſed to demand of me, purchaſed the proper Inſtruments, to make it appear that I had not my ſufficient Quantity of Land; and I have made it appear accordingly. But, alas! to what Purpoſe? I have been juſt now at the Exchequer, hoping to have received a large Sum of Money, ſuch as I have been obliged to pay for this many Years paſt, and as I told you before, for nothing at all: When to my great Surprize, I received this ſhort and pithy Anſwer The Exchequer never refunds. This hath made me make ſo much Haſte to lay open my Complaint to this High Court of Juſtice. I have been told that your ---- is a Detecter of Frauds, a Redreſſer of Injuries, and a Righter of Wrongs, and therefore I pray and hope you will order the Exchequer to pay me my Money.

The Attorney, with much Gravity, anſwered, That he doubted not it appeared to the Court, that the Man was not only now, but by his own Account had been for ſome time paſt, ſtark ſtaring mad. That none but a Man out of his Wits, could ever take it into his Head, that the Exchequer ever refunded: Such a Thing was never heard of, and the Court had no Power to alter the Courſe of Proceedings: But that the Man might have the uſual Satisfaction, to wit, to have a Leaſe for any other Land, wherever he could find it, to the amount of what he wanted in his old Leaſe. The Judge immediately pronounced this Offer to be very juſt and reaſonable; And the Man finding no other Redreſs was to be expected, replied, Well then! If nothing more can be had, I hope I ſhall have this new Land at the ſame Rent I ſhould have held the old Land. Hold! fair and ſoftly, quoth the Attorney, it is directly contrary to the Practice of the Office. The Man hereupon loſt all Patience: What? ſaid he, to refuſe to pay me my Money which you do not deny that I have paid in my own Wrong! This, indeed, is a Proof of your Power and my Weakneſs, and what I muſt ſubmit to becauſe I cannot help myſelf: But to make me put myſelf to all this Expence, and then to ſend me over the Mountains to ſeek a new Habitation; and even this not without paying your own Terms, and after all to call this a Satisfaction, is ſuch a provoking Contempt, as is more intolerable than the heavieſt Weight of your Power. No! If I muſt ſeek a new Habitation, it ſhall be far from ſuch a Pack of ------- You may keep your new Land to yourſelves and be d-----d, and the D---l in H--l do you good with it: And ſo with great Fury broke out of Court, when I expected no leſs than that a Tipſtaff would be immediately ſent after him: But his Inſolence did not ſo much aſtoniſh me, as the Flegm and Temper of the Judge, who cooly conſidering, that the true Way to gain theſe Points, was by Silence and Power, only ſaid, that the poor Fellow was really mad, and ought not therefore to be taken notice of.

The Court being pretty well ſettled after this Ruffle, a third Man aroſe, and with great Calmneſs and Compoſure repreſented his Caſe as follows. I am, ſaid he, in Poſſeſſion of two Farms, both deſcended to me from the ſame Anceſtor, and leaſed at the ſame time. In one I confeſs there is an Overplus, but in the other there is as much wanting as that Overplus amounts to. Now, what I expect from this High Court of Juſtice is this, that the Deficiency in the latter may pay for the Overplus in the former; and that I may have new Leaſes for both according to the real Quantity contained in each. And this I am in hopes will be the more readily complied with, in Regard it does not contradict the aforeſaid Maxim of the Attorney, That the Exchequer never refunds. And rather than contend with the Lord of this Manor, I am willing to pay the preſent Rent for the Overplus Land, whereby alſo the Practice of the Office will not be broke in upon.

The Attorney, with no leſs Gravity and compoſure, anſwered, That he ſhould be exceeding ſorry if the Gentleman's Hopes and Expectations ſhould be diſappointed, ed, which yet, he doubted not, they would, as being founded on ſo little Reaſon, and in Truth upon nothing but downright Chicanery. He could not conceive how the Gentleman could take it into his Head, to join two Leaſes together, which had no Manner of Relation to, or Dependance upon each other. That they were as diſtinct Things as any two Things of a different Kind or Species, and that paying for Land with Land, was a Method never before heard of; and ſo concluded, that the Gentleman proceeded upon a very great Miſtake and Miſapprehenſion of the Maxim that the Exchequer never refunds, in ſaying he did not contradict if he did not take Money out of it: For the Denyal to pay into it what was due thereto, was in Effect the ſame thing as the taking out of it; and the Word Refund ought not to be taken in ſuch a limited Senſe, to the great Prejudice and Loſs of the Lord of this Manor.

This admirable Diſtinction ſeem'd to carry great Weight with it: However, as it was a Point that required at leaſt the Semblance of Doubt and Deliberation, the Judge was neceſſarily to act the Part which he was upon ſome Occaſions to put on. It was pleaſant to obſerve how he doubted and then undoubted: How he reaſoned firſt on one Side of the Queſtion, and then very learnedly anſwered himſelf on the other; and like Judge Gripus in the Play, was ſo often on both Sides of the Queſtion, that I began almoſt my ſelf to doubt what would be the End of the Matter. At laſt, after a long Silence in the Court, and our eager Gaping for the Sentence, the Petit Maitre happening to be preſent that Day (to ſhew how the greateſt Events are often brought about by unforeſeen Accidents) aroſe out of his Chair with moſt ſolemn Deportment, as if the ſlow gradual Motion would add a Foot to his Perſonage; and looking round him to command the Attention of the Audience (which was entirely unneceſſary) after Hemming thrice (leaſt his Organs ſhould not be nimble enough for his Imagination) He made the following Speech, which truly I think I ſhall not forget to my dying Day.

SIR,

" The Multitude of the many and manifold Obliga-
" tions pour'd down upon me (even me. I confeſs, a
" Muſhroom of a Night's Growth) by the Lord of
" this Manor, not only to exerciſe his Power of Cre-
" ation, but to manifeſt his Benevolence, Affection, great
" Goodneſs and ſincere Inclinations and Endeavours for
" the Happineſs and Proſperity of us all, carry me thro'
" all Obſtacles and at all times to contribute the moſt,
" nay the utmoſt of my poor Abilities, wherever ap-
" pears the leaſt Shadow of an Invaſion upon either
" his Intereſt, his Honour, or his Prerogative. I ſhall
" not apologize then for intermeddling in this Matter,
" and acquainting you, That I am amazed, I am a-
" ſtoniſhed, I am confounded at the Heſitations, and
" Dubitations, ariſen in ſo plain a Caſe, as the preſent
" one is. What! are we become Inſenſible of Convic-
" tion? Have we loſt Sight of our North Star, by " which we have ſteered thro' ſo many Seas of Trou" bles, and piloted the floating Bark of this Common-
" Wealth, over ſo many Rocks and Shelves, to the " Admiration of all our Fellow Sailors in the ſame
" Fleet? O! thou darling Prerogative! Thou Sum-
" mum bonum of Politicks! Have I cheriſhed and fo-
" tered thee up ſo long, to loſe thee at laſt! Haſt not
" thou like a moſt generous and indulgent ------- repaid
" me with uncommon Care; and am not I ſtrongly ob-
" liged to hinder (if I can) any Diſappointment to thee in
" thy Hopes of Perfecting our happy Condition? How do
" I tremble, leſt the fatal Miſery and Calamities of
" Contentions and Diſturbances ſhould imbitter thy Sweet-
" neſs! Or the News of thy Downfal become unwelcome
" to us by the Load of an extraordinary Supply of ſuch
" Men as are actuated by ſome other Spirit than that of
" an Engliſhman, and labour to prevent our being looked
" upon as the chief Honour and Happineſs of Engliſhmen,
" and Envy of other Nations. Away then, with this
" trifling, unworthy, mean-ſpirited Diſtinction of Re-
" funding. What is it but pretended Inclinations and
" amuſing Applications? Is there need of other Diſtinc-
" tion than of the Perſon, to ſolve this mighty Conteſt?
" Ought, nay can there be Equality, where there is " Prerogative? Ballancing or paying with one Hand
" what is received by the other, may prevail amongſt
" Equals, but Prerogative directs another Rule: And " I can the more ſafely promiſe to myſelf the grateful Fe-
" licity of this Rule, ſince you, Sir, preſide over this
" High Court of Juſtice, and have always added Truth
" to your repeated Aſſurances of your utmoſt Aſſiſtances
" and good Wiſhes for the perfecting the happy Condition
" of Prerogative.

If you ſhould now aſk me whether this moving Speech had its deſired Effect, I can truly anſwer in the Affirmative. If you ſhould further aſk me, how it was poſſible for a Man of the moſt Chriſtian Patience to ſit and quietly hear ſuch d----ed Stuff, I muſt refer you for Anſwer to the Saying of a very admired Writer, That to endeavour to work upon the Vulgar with fine Senſe, is like attempting to hew Blocks with a Razor. If you ſhould again aſk me, whether there were not many more Queſtions debated that Day, of equal Learning and Juſtice with the former, I can likewiſe anſwer in the Affirmative; but that this incomparable Jingle of Plurals and Superlatives, left ſuch a Tingling in my Ears, that I am not able to give you an Account of them, only this in general, that no Caſe was ſo intricate, no Point ſo knotty, which mighty Prerogative could not unravel, or cut aſunder with wonderful Acuteneſs, and never-failing Succeſs.

My Imagination being at laſt quite overloaded with ſuch a ſtrange Jumble of angry Complainings, inſignificant Excuſes, ſubtle Diſtinctions, dogmatical Aſſertions, and high flown Metaphors, I retired with ſome Precipitation; and mounting my Pad, jogged home to my poor Dwelling in the Woods, with no little Pleaſure in the Reflection, that I was neither Agent nor Patient in ſuch Affairs; Tho' I could not help muſing upon that melancholy Queſtion, Whether the greateſt Number of Knaves or Fools can be found amongſt us, who all ſo proudly claim the Title of Rational Creatures?

I am your affectionate Friend,

and humble Servant,

A. B.

P. S. By way of News I am to acquaint you, that there is now in the Preſs, and will be publiſhed ſome time in May next, a moſt curious Treatiſe upon the ancient Alphabet, ſhewing that the true Art of Political Criticiſm conſiſts in rightly knowing how our Anceſtors put together thoſe important Letters: And proving, that in one Age K. PETERSBURG, November 17.

THE ſecond Ambaſſador who was expected from Perſia, arriv'd Yeſterday at the Convent of St. Alexander Newsky, and to Day he makes a pompous Entry into this City, It's confirm'd that the Empreſs is determin'd next Spring to ſend a conſiderable Body of Infantry, of at leaſt 20000, into Hungary, for the Service of the Emperor

BELGRADE, Nov. 20. Since the Imperial Troops are gone into Winter Quarters, the Turks began to make Incurſions into Servia and the Bannat of Temeſware, in order to raiſe Contributions; between whom and ſome Parties of Imperial Huſſars there have been a few Skirmiſhes, in which the Imperialiſts have moſtly come worſt off.

BELFAST, Nov. 17. Laſt Friday a Fire broke out in the Dwelling Houſe of Mr. Agnew, near Ballyclear, which entirely conſum'd the ſame. Mr. Agnew, had eſcap'd the Flames, but recollecting that his Son was in Bed, ran reſolutely in to him to take him out, where they both periſh'd; and the Father's Head was afterwards found lying at a conſiderable Diſtance from his Body.

BOSTON, February 26.

A few Days ago ſeveral Men being on board a Sloop lying at a Wharff at the North End, one of them inadvertently fired a Gun ſeveral Times charged with a Ball, at ſome Mark in the Dock between them and rhe Long-Wharff; but he not being a good Marks-Man, one of the Bullets flew into the back-Window of the upper Loft of the Houſe in which Mr. Morberly dwells, and paſs'd thro' the front Window directly oppoſit; Mr. Morberly, with another Man in the ſame Room, very narrowly eſcap'd with their Lives, the Bullet paſſing within a few Inches of them. Preſently after another Ball from the ſame Sloop ſtruck the lower Part of the ſame Houſe, and paſſing thro' the Boards aud Plaſtring ſtruck Mr. Morberly's Wife, then ſitting by the Fire, with ſuch Force as to overſet her againſt the Partition behind; and tho' ſhe was pretty much hurt by it, yet having at that Time ſome Cloth folded up to a conſiderable Thickneſs, which ſhe was at work upon, lying by her, againſt which the Bullet lodg'd, it ſo deadned its Force as that her Life was alſo preſerved.

Wedneſday Morning a ſorrowful Accident happen'd at the Houſe of Capt. Thomas Homans in the weſterly Part of this Town near Hooper's Meeting Houſe: A ſmall Quantity of Powder (ſuppos'd to be about a Quart) in a Leathern Bag, having been ſome time ſince put up on the Jam of a Chimney in a Chamber wherein they had been us'd to make a Fire, and the Family being about moving into the Country, did not ſuppoſe they ſhould ever have Occaſion for a Fire there: But a young Child being out of Order two or three Days ago, they made a Fire in the ſame Chimney, and unhappily forgot the Powder, which taking Fire, the Effects of it were very ſurprizing: A fine Child, (a Son) of about Eighteen Months old, was ſo burnt and its Joints ſo ſhatter'd by it, as that it died within about a Quarter of an Hour; and Mrs. Homans with two or three other Women in the Room were very much burnt and wounded; but it's hop'd they will recover: The Exploſion was ſo violent, (the Room being cloſe) that it beat down the Floor of the Chamber, ſo that the Tenants of the Summer broke out of the Mortices; the Partitions of each ſide the Chamber were beat down and the Doors very much ſhatter'd; the Cieling above was alſo blown up, and ſeveral Things broke to pieces in the Garret; and breaking off ſome of the Pointing, the Blaſt burſt open the Door on the Top of the Houſe, and expanded itſelf in the Air.

March 12. We have Advice by Capt. Montgomery from the Bay of Honduras, That Capt. Gwynn in a Veſſel belonging to this Place was taken by the Spaniards. And, that a Sloop bound from Wartemal, in the Gulph of Honduras, to the Havanna, very richly laden, was loſt in her Paſſage, the Men made ſhift to get upon a Maroon Iſland, where moſt of them were famiſhed. That Capt. Darby, of Rhode-Iſland, who ſail'd from hence laſt Fall, having Information whereabouts the Wreck lay, went to it, and took up about 7000 Pieces of Eight, 500 Piſtoles, a Silver Tea-Table, a Gold Cup, ſeveral Crucifixes of great Value, and ſundry other Pieces of Plate. Capt. Darby had alſo rais'd up an Iron Cheſt, ſuppos'd to contain Pieces of Eight, but being in a Boat and the Wind high, he was oblig'd to let it go, rather than endager their Lives, as they muſt have done, to get it in. Capt. Darby took the Spaniards, among whom was a Prieſt, off the Iſland, and carried them into the Bay. 'Tis ſaid, there were three Cheſts of Silver left in the Wreck, which 'tis ſuppos'd Capt. Darby will make another Attempt to obtain. He deſigns to go to Hamburgh with his Booty.
